NYC★BUG

New York City *BSD User Group
A forum for discussion and a bridge for learning

A *BSD InstallFest

Wednesday, August 3, 6:45 PM
Stone Creek bar backroom
140 E 27th Street in Manhattan
between Lexington & 3rd Avenues

NYC*BUG InstallFests are mixed up, sloppy opportunities to get hands-on and dirty with an array of hardware.

This is a great opportunity to test out the BSD Unix of your choice for the first or 54th time, in collaboration with other BSD users and developers.

From Raspberry Pis and BeagleBones to common 64-bit laptops, lots of hardware and a rat's nest of cables will entangle the room, along with install media for FreeBSD, NetBSD, OpenBSD, DragonFly BSD, Bitrig.

Bring in a laptop, maybe with a second hard disk, or one of the newer and supported ARM embedded boards. If you're curious about particular hardware support or need specific hardware for the install, feel free to ping our talk@ list beforehand. Or, just come and discuss.

As in the past, we'll utilize the digital projector to those doing short presentations or to display their progress during the evening.

No RSVPs are necessary, and a cash bar and food are available.

http://www.nycbug.org/
Join the talk@ and announce@ mailing lists at http://lists.nycbug.org/